Training Programme on Public Finance Concepts and Rules Held in Ampati

Ampati, June 2, 2026: A three-day training programme on “Public Finance: Concepts and Rules” for government officials of South West Garo Hills District commenced on Tuesday at the DRDA Hall, Ampati. Organised by the Meghalaya Administrative Training Institute (MATI), Shillong, the programme will run from June 2 to June 4, 2026, with the objective of strengthening the financial management capabilities of government officials and enhancing their understanding of financial regulations, procedures, and accountability mechanisms within government administration.

The training has brought together officials from various departments of the district administration, providing them with a platform to update their knowledge on public finance management and gain practical insights into the application of financial rules in day-to-day government functioning. The programme is designed to equip participants with the necessary skills to ensure efficient utilization of public resources, adherence to financial regulations, and transparent governance practices.

The inaugural day's sessions focused on key financial and administrative subjects, including Fundamental Rules and Subsidiary Rules (FR&SR), Delegation of Financial Powers (DFP) Rules, National Pension System (NPS), Treasury Rules, Budget Matters, and General Provident Fund (GPF) Rules. Detailed discussions were held on the responsibilities of drawing and disbursing officers, budget preparation and expenditure control, pension administration, and the procedures governing government financial transactions.

Participants were also provided with practical guidance on interpreting financial rules, maintaining financial discipline, and ensuring compliance with statutory requirements. The sessions highlighted the importance of accountability and transparency in public financial management, particularly in the context of evolving governance frameworks and increasing demands for efficient service delivery.

Over the next two days, the training programme will cover additional topics such as the Meghalaya Financial Rules, Travelling Allowance (TA) Rules, government accounting procedures, audit compliance, and other critical aspects of financial administration. These sessions are expected to help officials develop a comprehensive understanding of financial governance and strengthen their capacity to manage public funds responsibly.

The programme is being coordinated by Shri W. Rynjah, Assistant Director, Management Development Cell, MATI, Shillong. The resource sessions are being led by P.W. Dkhar, Financial Adviser to the Government of Meghalaya, who is serving as the principal resource person throughout the training. Drawing from his extensive experience in public finance and government administration, he is providing participants with both theoretical knowledge and practical perspectives on financial management in government institutions.

The training programme reflects the state government's continued commitment to capacity building and professional development of public servants. By enhancing officials' understanding of financial concepts, rules, and procedures, the initiative aims to promote sound financial governance, improve administrative efficiency, and ensure greater accountability in the management of public resources across South West Garo Hills District.

Officials attending the programme expressed confidence that the knowledge gained during the training would assist them in carrying out their responsibilities more effectively and contribute to better financial management practices within their respective departments.
